Shipments of Mobile Homes to States 325

Introduction

This report provides statistics on the number and valuation of housing units authorized by building permits and public contract awards in approximately 17,000 permit-issuing places. It includes summary statistics for States, metropolitan statistical areas (MSA's), consolidated metropolitan statistical areas (CMSA's), primary metropolitan statistical areas (PMSA's), and individual places.

The data relate to new housing units intended for occupancy on a housekeeping basis. They exclude mobile homes (trailers), hotels, motels, and group residential structures, such as nursing homes and college dormitories. They also exclude conversions of and additions and alterations to existing buildings. For sources and coverage of data, see Appendix A.

The 17,000 permit-issuing places account for a major portion of new residential housing units started in the United States. In 1989, more than 95 percent of all privately owned housing intended for occupancy on a housekeeping basis were constructed within permit-issuing places.

CONTENTS OF THE TABLES

Table 1 shows 1989 and historical data for the United States by type of structure inside and outside MSA's, and regions. Table 2 shows 1989 statistics by type of structure for the United States, regions, divisions, and states. Table 3 shows 1989 statistics by type of structure for the 263 MSA's, 20 CMSA's and their 71 component PMSA's. Table 4 provides the total number of new privately owned housing units authorized in 1988 and 1989 for each of the 17,000 permit-issuing places, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and new permit-issuing places identified since 1984.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

During 1989, local building permit offices in approximately 17,000 permit-issuing places authorized the construction of 1,338,400 new privately owned housing units with a total valuation of $100.7 billion. This was 8 percent below the 1,455,600 housing units authorized in 1988. Seventy percent of the housing units authorized in 1989 were single family, and 30 percent were in buildings with two units or more.

Approximately 84 percent or 1,127,600 of the 1,338,400 units authorized were located in metropolitan statistical areas. The three most active areas; Los Angeles-Anaheim-Riverside CMSA, New York-Northern New Jersey-Long Island CMSA, and San Francisco-Oakland-San Jose CMSA; accounted for 195,100 units or 15 percent of all units authorized in the United States. Thirty-eight percent or 505,300 units authorized in 1989 were located in the South region and 30 percent or 402,100 units were located in the West region. The three most active states, which accounted for 459,600 units or 34 percent of all units authorized, are California, Florida, and Virginia.

Appendix A. Description of Survey and Supplemental Information

SOURCE

The statistics in this publication on privately-owned housing units authorized by building permits are based upon reports submitted by 17,000 local building permit officials in response to mail surveys. Approximately 9,000 permit-issuing places are canvassed monthly and the remaining 8,000 places are canvassed annually. The information was obtained through the use of Form C404,"Report of Building or Zoning Permits Issued and Local Public Construction." (See Appendix E for a copy of the form.)

When a report is not received, missing data are either (1) obtained from the Survey of Use of Permits (SUP) which is used to collect information on housing starts, or (2) imputed. Data from the SUP are available only for about 850 places for which Census Bureau interviewers list and sample the permits that authorized construction of new residential structures. For places not in the SUP, imputations are used. The imputations are based on the assumption that the ratio of current month authorizations to those of a year ago should be the same for reporting and nonreporting places.

SAMPLE DESIGN AND ESTIMATION PROCEDURES

The summary statistics shown in Tables 1, 2, and 3 are not based upon a sample, but are obtained by directly cumulating the reported data for the 17,000 permit-issuing places. They include imputed data for those places which did not respond to the annual mail survey or which provided reports for fewer than 12 months, if canvassed monthly. Totals shown in Tables 1, 2, and 3 do not include data for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

RELIABILITY OF THE DATA

Although these statistics are not subject to sampling variability, they are subject to various response and operational errors which can be attributed to many sources: inability to obtain information about all cases, differences in interpretation of questions, inability or unwillingness by respondents to provide correct information, and errors made in processing the data. Explicit measures of the effects of these errors are not available. However, most of the important operational errors were detected and corrected in the course of the Bureau's review of the data for reasonableness and consistency.

GEOGRAPHIC COVERAGE OF BUILDING PERMIT JURISDICTIONS

Most of the places listed in Table 4 are municipalities; the remainder are counties, townships, or New England and Middle Atlantic-type towns, as individual entries will indicate. Where no designation is shown, the place listed is an incorporated city.

For the municipalities, and townships or towns, the area subject to building permit requirements to which the figures pertain is normally that of the governmental jurisdiction. A small number of municipalities, however, have permit-issuing authority extending beyond their corporate limits. In such cases, the data relate to the entire area within which the permit-issuing authority is exercised. Similarly, a small number of townships issue permits for only part of the township, and the data normally cover only the area subject to the township's permit system. Municipalities located in more than one county are shown under the county in which the greater number of inhabitants resided in 1980.

A different situation as to area covered applies to county building permit systems. In most cases, coverage applies to all unincorporated territory, or the areas not subject to municipal building permit systems or to specially zoned areas. This information is appropriately indicated in the explanatory footnotes.

In the relatively few instances where individual municipalities or townships that issue permits are known also to come within the permit jurisdiction of a county, figures are gathered and shown here for the county only, in order to avoid double counting.

LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

The portion of residential construction measurable from building permit records is inherently limited since such records obviously do not reflect construction activity outside of areas subject to local permit requirements. For the nation as a whole, less than 5 percent of all privately owned housing units are constructed in areas not requiring building permits. However, this proportion varies greatly from State to State and among MSA's, CMSA's, and PMSA's.

The reported statistics are also influenced by the following factors:

1. A study spanning 4 years showed that about 3 percent of the single-family houses built in permit-issuing places are built without a permit.

2. Changes in boundaries of permit-issuing places due to annexations, new incorporations, etc., may result in some problems in comparability in the statistics for the same place over a period of time.
3. Changes in definitions of MSA's result in problems of comparability in the data over time. However, this difficulty can be overcome by using data in Table 4 to revise the statistics for the MSA's that have been redefined.

To the extent that these limiting factors apply rather consistently over an extended period, they may not seriously impair the usefulness of building permit statistics as indicators of trends in residential construction activity. However, even in this connection, the geographical delimitations of the data need to be kept in mind. The characteristics of building permit data further restrict their value as indicators of the dollar volume of residential construction. Any attempt to use these figures for interarea comparisons of construction volume must, at best, be made cautiously and with broad reservations.

RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER DATA

The statistics in this report on housing units authorized by building permits are related to the data published in Construction Reports, Series C20, Housing Starts. The principal data contained in the C20 report are estimates of the total number of housing units actually started throughout the United States during the month or year covered in the report. The statistics on housing units authorized in permit-issuing places are used as one element in the computation of the total number of housing units started in areas covered by building or zoning permit systems. They are naturally different from and should not be confused with the data on housing starts. However, the continuing sample surveys made each month by the Census Bureau indicate that, for the nation as a whole, only about 2 percent of the housing units authorized by permits are never constructed. The surveys also show that a major proportion of the units normally start during the month of authorization and that most of the remainder are started within the following 3 months.

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS OF TERMS

Housing unit.A housing unit, as defined for purposes of this report, consists of a room or group of rooms intended for occupancy as separate living quarters by a family, by a group of unrelated persons living together, or by a person living alone. Separate living quarters are those in which the occupants live and eat separately from other persons in the building and have direct access from the outside of the building or through a common hall. In accordance with this definition, each apartment unit in an apartment building is counted as one housing unit; for example, one building containing 50 apartments appears in these tables as 50 housing units.

Valuation. The cost of construction as recorded on the building permit. This figure usually excludes the cost of on-site and off-site development and improvements and the cost of heating, plumbing, electrical and elevator installations.

Metropolitan statistical area. The titles and definitions of the MSA's, CMSA's, and PMSA's conform to those defined by the Office of Management and Budget, Executive Office of the President as of June 1983, amended to June 1989. The MSA titles and definitions are listed in Appendix B, and the CMSA and PMSA titles and definitions are listed in Appendix C.

AVAILABILITY OF ADDITIONAL BUILDING PERMIT DATA

Monthly and annual statistics on residential and nonresidential building permits are available on computer tapes, diskettes and printouts. Computer tapes contain data for individual permit-issuing places by type of structure. Computer printouts and diskettes contain either data for individual places or data aggregated to the State or MSA level. Both are available at the end of the month; e.g., July data are available at the end of August. To obtain further information on purchasing these data, contact Data User Services Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233; Phone: (301) 763-4100.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING FORM C-404, " REPORT OF BUILDING OR ZONING PERMITS ISSUED AND LOCAL PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION"

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

Complete each section by summarizing information for number of buildings, number of housing units, and valuation of construction as shown on the building or zoning permit.

Classify any building that has multiple uses (e.g., combination office and apartment building) according to its primary use.

Using these instructions and your classification handbook, determine the appropriate item for each building or zoning permit. Enter a building in only one category. If you are unable to determine where to classify a building, list it in the comments section.

PERMITS TO INCLUDE

Include all permits issued for new construction, additions, alterations, conversions, and demolitions of—

- residential buildings
- nonhousekeeping residential buildings
- nonresidential buildings
- recreational facilities
- harbor and port facilities

Include permits for both privately and publicly owned construction. Privately-owned construction is defined as all buildings owned by a private company or individual during the period of construction. This includes all housing built by nonprofit organizations and "turnkey" housing; i.e., housing that will be sold to a local public housing authority when completed.Publicly-owned construction is defined as all buildings owned by a governmental body during the period of construction.

Include a foundation permit only when it is issued separately and shows a valuation of construction. Enter the valuation on the proper item line in accordance with the intended use of the superstructure and enter zero for the number of buildings and housing units.

PERMITS TO EXCLUDE

Exclude all permits issued for—

- mobile homes
- landscaping
- moved or relocated buildings
- maintenance and repair
- installations, such as plumbing, electrical, and mechanical work
- erection or placement of manufactured items, such as fences, signs, and television antennas
- heavy construction such as highways and streets, and earthmoving

MAILING DATE — Please mail your report on or before the date shown on your survey form.

CHANGES TO YOUR PERMIT SYSTEM — Please mark changes, if any, to your building permit system in the appropriate box on your survey form.

NO PERMITS ISSUED — If no permits were issued during the month, mark an "X" in the box provided, sign your form, and return it in the enclosed preaddressed envelope.

REVISIONS OF EARLIER MONTH'S REPORT — Enter any revisions to data for previous month(s) in the comments section. Include the reference month of the original data.

Exclude mobile homes and all moved or relocated buildings.

A housing unit is a house, an apartment, a group of rooms, or a single room, occupied as separate living quarters. Separate living quarters are those—

Supplement.

SHIPMENTS OF MOBILE HOMES TO STATES

This supplement contains annual statistics on new mobile homes shipped to States.

For this series, a mobile home is defined as a moveable dwelling, ten feet or more wide and thirty-five feet or more long, designed to be towed on its own chassis, with transportation gear integral to the unit when it leaves the factory, and without need of a permanent foundation. These mobile homes include double-wide and expandable mobile homes. Excluded are travel trailers, motor homes, and modular housing. The shipments figures are based on reports submitted by manufacturers on the number of mobile homes actually shipped during the survey month. Shipments to dealers may not be placed for residential uses in the same month as they are shipped. The number of mobile "homes" used for nonresidential purposes is not known.

These shipments statistics are produced by the National Conference of States on Building Codes and Standards (NCSBCS). For further information on NCSBCS data collection procedures, write to: National Conference of States on Building Codes and Standards, 1970 Chain Bridge Road, McLean Virginia, 22101.
